1. Chopard's Happy White is a fresh way to wear this perennial favourite characterised by three diamonds that spin freely around the dial. Stainless steel with quartz movement on a rubber strap. 2. Rado's Ceramica XL Jubilé gimmers with a hint of green tsavorites beneath the dial. Quartz movement in a scratch-proof ceramic case. 3. Raymond Weil's elegant Shine can be dressed up or down to suit the occasion with a change of strap. Stainless steel with diamonds and quartz movement. 4. The Manometro S, inspired by the humble tyre pressure gauge, is the latest offering from Italian watch house Giuliano Mazzuoli. Carbon fibre case and dial, titanium crown with mechanical self-winding movement. 5. The Black TechnoLady Chrono Diamond Ceramique from Technomarine with diamond-set bezel is a useful chronograph as well as a stylish accessory. Ceramic case and strap with quartz movement.
